20 Boys Leave City for Outcalt Cottage at Freehold.

MIDDLETOWN TO GET 45 MORE CHILDREN

Warwick Committee Finds New
Way to Aid—Contributions
Pass $25,000 Mark.

The Tribune Fresh Air Fund sent two parties of children to Middletown yesterday. One party of forty-five—thirty girls and fifteen boys—went to the family home for convalescents, near Middletown, N. Y.

The second party numbered twenty boys, and was bound for Outcalt Cottage at Freehold, N. J. Each group is to have a fortnight vacation.

Outcalt Cottage is a new Fresh Air home of which the Tribune Fund has acquired temporary control in an effort to meet the extraordinary situation at present existing as a result of the outbreak of infantile paralysis.

Places for Camps Sought.

Under ordinary conditions the fund each summer places about 5,000 children for outings in private families scattered through the country region. Owing to the quarantines so widely established among New York children this summer, this part of the fund's work it constitutes about one-half of the whole has been made impossible.

The fund has, therefore, been endeavoring to find places where the establishment of fresh air camps would be permitted, to augment the number of accommodations of this kind at its disposal.

Outcalt Cottage is the first of the new places to be filled with children. Others are in preparation, however. One with a much larger capacity will be opened on a magnificent site in the Catskills within a few days. Negotiations for the use of another site within the city limits are under way, and probably will be completed today.

Local Committees Keep Up Work.

Hundreds of people throughout the country districts are greatly disappointed over the enforced cutting of the fund's work this year. Many of the local committees, however, are continuing their work in a new way, turning their efforts to the relief of the children in the city.

A contribution to the Fresh Air Fund has been made by the city of New York. The committee has asked them to give money so that they may provide for the maintenance of numbers of children in the Tribune's Fresh Air homes and camps.

The Warwick Committee is paying the expenses of the vacations of a party of twenty boys. Other committees which have already sent contributions of money to the fund are the Oxford, N. Y., Committee, and the Stroudsburg, Penn., Committee. Other committees are hard at work on their collections and will be heard from soon.

Senator Sage Wants to Quit the State Executive Committee.

Senator Henry M. Sage, of Albany, has asked Frederick C. Tanner, chairman of the Republican State Committee, to accept his resignation as a member of the executive committee, and Republican politicians are wondering why Senator Sage, it is understood, believes that he cannot give the time necessary to the work of the committee, and that therefore some one with more spare time should have the place.

What makes the request of Senator Sage significant, however, is the fact that he is the representative of William Barnes, of the committee, the work of which has mainly to do with Governor Whitman's campaign for reelection. As a matter of fact, Senator Sage, who hails from Albany, is the only Barnes representative on the committee. That is why the Republican politicians are wondering what it means.

COLONEL INSISTS ON CLEAN VILLAGE

His Committee Orders Hygienic
Survey of Oyster Bay.

(By Telegram to the Tribune.)

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 2.—The suggestion of Theodore Roosevelt, "clean-up" committee, organized some time ago by the Colonel to remedy the insanitary conditions in Oyster Bay to check the spread of infantile paralysis, decided to-night to establish an isolation hospital and to have a hygienic survey made of the entire village to see just what sanitary conditions it put in good sanitary condition.

"Any property owner in a community like this," said Colonel Roosevelt, "who places in jeopardy the health of every child and adult in the village by refusing to clean up his place should be prosecuted to the full extent of the law, and it is the duty of this committee to see that this is done."

The health officer reported that in one house in the village sixteen persons were living in three rooms.

"Why, such conditions are as bad as the overcrowding in the worst tenement house in New York City," said the Colonel. "It will have to be stopped, and we must all work together to see that quick work is made of such conditions."

GUARDSMAN SAYS CAMP COST HIM POSITION

Has Butter Company Manager
Summoned to Court.

J. H. Hagelund, general manager of the Blue Valley Butter Company, with offices at Twelfth Avenue and 131st Street, appeared in the Harlem Court yesterday, in response to a summons issued by Magistrate Grochling charging him with depriving a member of the National Guard of employment.

The complainant is First Sergeant Benjamin Silverman, of the 31st Company of the 8th Coast Defense command. After an all-day hearing, the magistrate adjourned the hearing until August 10 in the Morrisania Court.

Silverman testified that he returned from the annual encampment of the regiment at Camp H. S. Wright on July 17, and was told he was no longer employed by the company. Mr. Hagelund received his defense until the next hearing, but H. R. Lewis, of 330 Broadway, for the manager, in cross-examination Silverman, declared a misunderstanding had resulted from the terms of Silverman's leave of absence.

The document is a copy of the original will, by which Koepen bequeathed his $25,000 estate to New York friends. Koepen, who conducted a harness shop at Eighth Avenue and Fifty-eighth Street in pre-war days, had no known heirs.

Henry Wellington Wack, a New York lawyer, traveler and friend of Dr. Frederick A. Cook, of North Pole fame, produced a second Koepen will, which gave him practically all of the estate. He also exhibited what he claimed was a copy of the original Koepen will, which was the one permitted to probate to-day.

As agreed to, the bill appropriates about $1,125,000.

National Chamber of Commerce
Official Says Action Must Be Taken Soon.

(From The Tribune Bureau.)

Washington, Aug. 2.—Urging on President Wilson the necessity for prompt action if the threatened general railroad strike is to be prevented, Harry A. Wheeler, of Chicago, chairman of the Committee on the Railroad Situation of the National Chamber of Commerce, presented an appeal from business men to-day asking Federal intervention.

Mr. Wheeler told the President that the railroads and the trainmen had reached a point where neither would give in, and that unless some strong measure of intervention was introduced a break would be inevitable.

Copies of the appeal to the President have been sent to representatives of the railroads, the four brotherhoods of railway men, Chairman Newlands of the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce and Chairman Adamson of the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce. A special message has been addressed to all urging that steps be taken to insure intervention as assured in the resolution recently introduced by Senator Newlands and ratified by an almost unanimous vote of the commercial organizations affiliated with the National Chamber of Commerce.

Chairman Wheeler declares it may be imperative to call soon a conference in Washington, where the interests of the shipper and the general public can be shown as to impress Congress with the necessity of immediate action.

Urges Administration Inquiry.

"I feel constrained to bring to your attention a matter in connection with the controversy between the railroads and the trainmen's brotherhoods," Chairman Wheeler declares in a letter to the President, "in the hope that you will see fit to start an inquiry on behalf of the Administration as to the near approach of an actual crisis in the matter, and to verify the statement which I herewith submit."

"As chairman of the National Chamber Committee on the Railroad Situation, I met in New York with the railway executive advisory committee, Frank P. Trumbull, chairman, and the national conference committee of railroads, Elisha Lee, chairman, to request from them a definite statement as to the position of the railroads when the strike convenes to hear the result of the strike vote, which was completed last week."

"There seems to be a prevailing opinion in Washington, and I think among the railroads, that the country, that no interruption of freight transportation will result and that some means will be found to adjust the differences. I am assured that the result of the meeting my conviction is deepened that an amicable settlement is remote, and that while other orders steps are yet to be taken, a final break is reached, and such a break is inevitable unless strong measures of intervention are speedily introduced."

Neither Ready to Yield.

"On August 8, the joint conference will convene again, the men will announce the result of their strike vote, and the roads will reiterate their proposals, which the brotherhoods have once declined. I am assured that there will be no modification of attitude of the roads. Neither is it expected that the representatives of the men, with the new proposal of a strike vote, will reach a position which they have heretofore taken."

"The United States Board of Mediation and Conciliation may come into the matter at this point, but without my judgment, in bringing these contending factions together. Finally, arbitration may be discussed, and the break will come when the men refuse to arbitrate and the roads refuse to arbitrate."

"Thus, unless there is intervention as proposed in Senate Joint Resolution 145, ratified by an almost unanimous vote of the commercial bodies affiliated with the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, or other governmental intervention on behalf of the public, nothing will be left but for the men indefinitely to defer action or exercise the authority conferred upon them by an overwhelming vote to start a strike."

In the meantime the roads definitely express a determination not to recede from their present position no matter from what source an appeal is made, and while I am usually optimistic about such situations, I must confess in this situation, after talking most earnestly with both parties to the controversy, I see no ray of light nor any possibility of averting a serious catastrophe."

The Superintendent of Banks obtained an order of the court to do this, and he now has from the end of September until December 7 to sell the real estate, securities and other collateral of the defunct institution.

The court said that "no dividend shall be paid to any creditor against whom said Union Bank of Brooklyn has a claim, offset or counter claim except for the excess due such creditor over the amount of such claim."

Real estate sales are to be subject to the approval and confirmation of Joseph P. Day, designated as auctioneer. An allowance of $2,500 is made to the Bank of America for its advertising. All securities of the bank will be sold at public auction at the Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange.

London, Aug. 2.—Without waiving the right it claims to seize international securities as contraband, the government has decided to release a number of such consignments and permit them to be forwarded to their neutral destinations. The Foreign Office has explained this action as follows:

"In recent months his majesty's government has detained and placed in prize courts a large number of consignments of securities of enemy origin, amounting to several million dollars, passing in the mails between Holland and certain houses in the United States."

"In view, however, of representations regarding the damage caused genuine neutral interests by seizures made in the past, the governments have decided to waive what they believe to be their strict rights, and to release a number of these consignments and forward them to their destinations."

"The Allied governments maintain their rights to intercept such securities in the future, but they have concluded arrangements whereby neutral business will be safeguarded from inconvenience and neutral transactions may be made with certainty of freedom from seizure."
